What are cookies and online identifiers

Cookies are small text files placed by the website/webpage visited, through the browser, on the device used for browsing (computer, smartphone, etc.), which identify this browser and/or the device when the website/webpage is accessed, and plug-ins are small software applications placed by social media platform providers that integrate them when they are included on the website/webpage visited.

Whenever someone first browses or returns to our website, these small files in their browser communicate with the server that placed the cookie. These identifiers can thus provide a number of services – for example, they can remember which language settings and display font size the visitors prefer, whether the website is accessed by a human user or a botnet, in which case online alerting and security tools can be triggered, etc.

Who can place cookies and identifiers online

Cookies and online identifiers may be placed, when someone browses our website, by our server itself (first-party cookies) or by third-party domains (third-party cookies), for example, plug-ins placed by social platforms and which receive a signal when our website gets visited, but similarly they also receive it when the same user visits other websites that have that plug-in integrated.

Third-party cookies are usually placed to facilitate the provision of online advertising and the tracking of the effectiveness of its results. Since 2020, they have evolved towards new ways of interacting with users of various websites, such as Privacy Sandbox or Google Consent Mode, which for example allows websites to run Google-based services based on the consent expressed by the website user.

The list of declared cookies and online identifiers is available in the Details tab of the Cookiebot banner.

What are the purposes and grounds for the use of cookies

Cookies are considered necessary when they are used exclusively for the purpose of transmitting a communication through an electronic communications network or when the operations performed by cookies run in order to provide an information society service (e.g. access to the website), expressly requested by the user. For this type of cookies, the user's consent is not required, because it serves both his/her interest (allowing the communication and/or other requested service) and the legitimate interest of the owner of the website and, as the case may be, compliance with the law, which may impose cybersecurity requirements.

Preference cookies are used to remember the preferences of the website/page user, so that choosing preferences again in case of a subsequent visit is no longer necessary. Analysis and statistical cookies indicate whether and how the website has been previously visited. Advertising/marketing cookies are used for online advertising. All categories of cookies/online identifiers, except those necessary, can only be placed and used based on your consent, as a user.

There may be other categories of cookies, but as a general rule, they can only be placed and used with the consent of the person visiting the respective website.

In the Details tab you can review the categories, providers and information available for each entry. To change your choice, return to the banner settings.

After making a choice, you can check the current status of your consent using the Cookiebot icon at the bottom left of the website.

How long a cookie is kept

Session cookies are deleted when you close your browser. Persistent cookies remain activated, according to the type and consent expressed, for the period set and displayed in our detailed List of Cookies, if you do not opt to delete it prior to the expiration of that timeline. Please be informed that Tiriac Air renews cookie consent requests at least once a year, according to its policy.

To whom and where the collected data may be transmitted

ION TIRIAC AIR S.R.L., as the operator of the website, has access to the data associated with the online identifiers and uses them according to the legislation in force. We may pass such data on to partners and service providers, for example, our advertising agency, consultants, etc.

Third-party cookies and similar services are controlled by the entities that place them, and we urge you to review their terms and conditions to learn more about their use. You can find out details about the recipients of the data in our detailed List of Cookies.
